

Ms. Ida A. Mrema

Ida Mrema is an Assistant Lecturer in the department of Biological sciences, Mkwawa University College of Education, which is the Constituent College of the University of Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania. Ida holds a Master degree in Biodiversity Conservation with a focus on insect ecology. Ms. Ida is involved in teaching Zoological courses to undergraduate students. Her research interests is on the area of vector ecology, vector borne diseases (Schistosomiasis) entomology and parasitology. Ida has a strong passion to research on vector borne diseases (especially neglected Tropical diseases). She is also interested in multidisplinary work, bridging scientists, policy makers and local communities towards creating awareness and means of controlling the neglected diseases.

Contacts

Email: idadrema@yahoo.com

Phone: +255757649418

Areas of specialization and Research Interest

Insect ecology, vector borne diseases and environmental conservation

Mrema, I.A. and Nyundo, B.A (2016) Pollinators of Allanblackia stuhlmannii (Engl.), Mkani fat an endemic tree in eastern usambara mountains, Tanzania, Int. J. Pure App. Biosci. 4(1): 61-67 doi: <http://dx.doi.org/10.18782/2320-7051.2203>